Skinwalkers

A fictitious truth is a character, idea or organization that can be true and real in a fictional world but not in the real world. The Fictitious truth that I am proposing for my final project is that Skinwalkers are real. I want to tell the audience that Skinwalkers exist but only In certain places. Skinwalker hide and stay In certain places which Is why Humans don't see them often. For this project I want to bring awareness to skinwalkers and the people who live in the areas where there are skinwalkers. I want to show how to protect yourself and what to do if you are in the presence of a skinwalker. Skinwalkers are old creatures that were created by Navajo people (which is a Native American tribe from southwest United States) Which are said to be an evil spirit. Skinwalkers could be some sort of ghost, demon or Alien but I want to make them as witches who used to be human but sacrifice themselves or something else to become a shapeshifter. Skinwalkers can take many different forms like a human or animal, which makes it hard to tell if they are real or not, and it's important to know if they are a skinwalker before you start attacking them and running. I think talking about skinwalkers could be a very Interesting topic to write about because It is a little paranormal and I want to show people that skinwalkers are not just a myth and that you could possibly get attacked by one. I found out about skinwalkers through Tik Tok with this video of a girl catching a deer staring weirdly at her ring camera and acting weird, everyone in the comment were saying that it was a skinwalker and to be careful, then I started to watch more videos of skinwalkers on tik tok and more ring videos of scary looking tall creatures. I thought it looked fake but I did still believe that they were real and harmful. Last year In 2024 I saw this movie from these youtubers that do paranormal investigations, going to a small town in new mexico to catch some skinwalkers footage, They never caught anything physical on camera but they did see experience some paranormal activity and they were talking with some ghost that worked with skinwalkers and aliens. Even though they didn't get evidence of skinwalkers, I believe that they still exist. The Skinwalker became known because of Navajo culture. Navajo people believe that a skinwalker is an evil witch who can disguise themselves as an animal and understand the power of manipulating the natural world to their will. These skinwalkers are said to cause harm and use their powers for bad and evil purposes. This could become a benevolent untruth by telling people to never go looking for evil beings or spirits.
